

Rebecca Trinca

Semi-Abstract Expressionist
Figurative

Rebecca Trinca has led a life immersed in creativity. From studying 17th & 18th Century Decorative Arts at Sotheby's London to running her own knitwear business, Birdie Cashmere, she has explored various creative fields, each fuelling her artistic journey.

Four years ago, Rebecca embarked on a new chapter in painting. She finds immense joy in the continuous learning and expressive freedom it offers, stating, "Painting will challenge me for the rest of my life. I will never get to the end, it will push me forward continuously."

Her work is best described as lyrical and semi-abstract expressionist. She paints places and spaces that evoke emotions, translating their essence through defined and vibrant marks, color, and contrasting textures. Her dynamic and energetic pieces demand a response from the viewer, ranging from calming to evocative.
